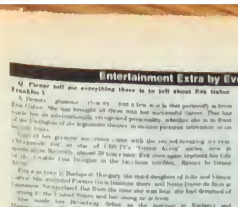
Q. Please tell me everything there is to tell about Fred Gwynne.

Fred Gwynne, glamour man, he is. But a fine actor that personally is loves rather less on television (an unfortunate impersonal medium) than on the stage of the Longwarden Shakespeare theatre in modern personal television or on movie screen.

Fred of late years has come alone with the period breaking out from Hollywood for an star of CBS TV's "Foster Array" series, now in syndication. Recently, almost 20 years later, Fred once again reprised his role of Lt. Frank Ives Dorsiger in the movie version, Herman by Howard Morris.

Fred was born in Bangor, Maryland, the third daughter of Julie and Vincent Gwynne. Switzerland. Dad Fred was the time she was four she had dramatized of seeing in the United States and had coming up to town.

She made her Broadway debut as the ingenue in Rodgers and Hart musical version "The Happy Time" and went on Broadway's Hollywood and movie version.



Fred's movie picture debut came early with "Forced Landing" and roles in others shortly followed. Her most notable movie credits as a star include "The Land Time I Saw Paris" "Artists and Models," "Don't Go Near The Water" "Life" "My Man Godfrey" and "A New Kind of Love."

Her Broadway appearances are hard contrasting with Neil Gerard in "Forward Laughter" as well as replacing Vivien Leigh in the hit Broadway musical "Tonight" and leaving the East to star in "Applause." She has done such national company productions as "Bubbe Spirit," "Nunsa a Match," "oh Men, Oh Women," "Hey I Applaud Lover," "Time Flies," "A Shot In The Dark," "Private Lives," "A Little Night Music" and others. In 1983, Fred was called back to Broadway for the revival of the George S. Kaufman-Moss Hart comedy, "You Can't Take It With You." It was a lively reunion for Fred and her "Forever Actor" father Albert as they had not worked together since the series. The box office of the play rivalled to standing ovals only during the run of their performances.

Along with her busy career as an actress, Fred finds time to serve as chairman of the Board of the world's largest gift company, Fred Gwynne Enterprises, now celebrating its 17th anniversary.

With all her activities, Fred makes time to share charitable causes, and has chaired the 4 Quit branch of the American Cancer Society, she is currently with the National Spokesperson for Jerry's Foundation for Hospice and Healthcare and for Kodak's community Health Center for Children.

Fred's most recent TV Emmy was awarded the honor of a Star on the Walk of Fame on Hollywood Boulevard in recognition of her outstanding accomplishments and popularity. The frequent companion of Mort Griffin now resides in Beverly Hills, California.

Q. How many times did Burt Reynolds have before he married Loni Anderson? We have a bet. I say two, my sister says none, and my other sister says none. It's up to you now. I believe.

A. One of your sisters wins the bet. She met Loni and Burt's only previous marital commitment was to Judgeh star Judy Carne who has gone forward for her role in the original "Laugh-In" series that she made a major star out of Goldie Hawn.

Q. I heard a rumor that Linda Hunt, who plays Felicia on "Another World" wants to leave the show. Is this true? And if it is true, has she given any reasons for her decision? Paula

A. As of this writing, what you heard is just a rumor, nothing more. It is believed that Linda signed a long back when Linda got her own TV show on LIFETIME (little called Attitudes) which she chooses with Ben Kelly. Linda has been able to do both her shows quite well and as of this writing has no intention of making any changes.

Q. I saw a news item on TV tonight that Donald Trump lost a lot of money. Is it true? What do you know about this story? Ed G.

A. According to a recent issue of Forbes Magazine the Donald (as his estranged wife Ivana refers to Trump) is no longer the billionaire he once was. He's only half a billionaire, says the magazine. Donald says that's not so, and states that he is selling many of his properties so some he's has money are not that Trump says he's looking to raise more cash to buy more properties in a soft real estate market. A source I consulted says there's a lot more to the "Forbes" story that hasn't yet come out.

Q. A year ago, you wrote in your column that Martha Mason never had an affair with Clark Gable. I just read that while they were making "The Misfits," they had a really big affair going. What do you have to say to that? Gloria

A. I stick by my previous comment. Everyone on the set of "The Misfits" has said the relationship between Gable and Monroe was polite, but hardly passionate. He was always upset when she arrived late on the set and delayed filming. This kind of behavior would never sit with Gable who he all has many going ways off screen was a dear gentleman when he was working.

Opening lead — king of spades.

When declarer is faced with an immediate danger that cannot be averted, he should seek a way to maximize the risk. South tried to do that in today's deal, but overlooked the option that offered him the best chance to save his contract.

West led the king of spades against four hearts after having overcalled with one spade. South won with the ace and returned a spade planning to ruff the third spade in dummy. East in the meantime followed with six five and the three.

When West won the second spade with the queen and continued with the ten, declarer saw that if he ruffed low in dummy East might overruff. Since a finesse could not work West offered to ruff with the seven which would necessitate trying to ruff for the defense, he decided to ruff with the ten, hoping West held the jack.

Unfortunately, East overruffed, and the defenders later scored a ruff trick and a doubtful trick to put the contract down one.

The misfortune that befell South was really his own fault. He missed a relatively simple play that would have offered a far greater chance of success. Instead of trumping the third spade in dummy, he should have made West a present of the trick by discarding a diamond from his hand.

The maneuver eliminates both the threat of an overruff by East and declarer's diamond loser in effect. South simply exchanges a potential loser in one for a certain diamond loser.

Once this countermeasure is taken, the defense is helpless. If West continues with a spade, declarer can ruff the overruff if necessary in his own hand, pay the A K of diamonds and ruff a diamond, and then draw trumps. His only losers are two spades and a club. The result is exactly the same if West shifts to another suit after the ten of spades holds.

Hot rolls begin to rise. Place in greased bowl, cover with damp towel. Let stand 20-30 minutes for first minutes. Drain and chop fine with lemon juice. Toss nuts into side up on baking sheet. Cover nuts with lime dressing equally. Arrange lime slices overlapping and fanned layer. In medium bowl toss shredded Danish cheese with egg yolks, onion, pepper and cayenne. Season with salt and pepper. In small mixing bowl or egg whites until stiff. Fold whites into cheese mixture. Spoon mixture on cucumber slices, dividing equally. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 10 minutes or until golden brown and puffed. Makes four servings.
